I can use adverbs of cause.

LessonID: 238

Adverbs of cause show a relationship, or link, between two clauses. You may be used to calling these words conjunctions. Be careful though - not all conjunctions are adverbs. Select the most appropriate adverb from the box to fill in the gap in each sentence.

whereas    until    otherwise    if    however    because    until

You need to put your coat on ..... you will get wet in the rain.

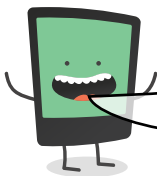

You love to be the centre of attention ..... I prefer not to be noticed.

Ben cycled his bike ..... he ran out of energy.

Sally got full marks ..... she worked hard.

..... everyone works hard, we will have an extra playtime.

Paul dislikes pizza ..... he does like cheese and tomato.

Now try writing your own sentences using the adverbs of cause from the box above. Remember, adverbs of cause show a link between two clauses, so you'll need two related clauses.
