

Name: _____

Date: _____

I understand how apostrophes are used to show possession.

LessonID: 298

Apostrophes can be used to show possession: that is, one thing belonging to - or being possessed - by another. For each sentence below, work out who owns what.

It is Beth's ball.

The belongs to

It is Paul's turn.

The belongs to

The next question is Ben's.

The belongs to

Sally's toys were in a mess.

The belong to

For each sentence below, work out whether apostrophes for possession are needed and if so, where. Add them in the correct places then explain your reasons fully. Some sentences may not need any apostrophes, whereas others many need more than one.

I think I have found Beths pencil case.

.....
.....
.....

The tennis balls belong in the cupboard.

.....
.....
.....

Today's weather will be hot and sunny.

.....
.....
.....

Ben's friends forgot their football boots.

.....
.....
.....