

Name: _____

Date: _____

I can use semicolons between items in a list.

LessonID: 312

Semicolons can be used to separate items in a complicated list, when the items in the list may contain commas themselves. In each list below, write down the individual items in the list, including all the words that make up that item. The first has been done for you.

In my garage I have a number of tools: a hammer, which my father gave me; a saw; a drill, which needs repairing; and a screwdriver.

1) a hammer, which my father gave me .....

2) .....

3) .....

4) .....

Ben had a number of things to do: his maths homework, which he loved doing; his reading; his project, which he knew would take hours; and his times tables.

1) .....

2) .....

3) .....

4) .....

Listed below are four items to buy from the supermarket. Write these down in a list, using semicolons between each item. Don't forget to introduce the list with a main clause.

Brown or white bread, whichever is cheaper

Milk

Pepper (ground), which could be hard to find

Cheese

Large empty box with horizontal dotted lines for writing a list.